Gaslighting in America: A Guide for Historic Preservation. With the current interest in preserving and revitalizing historic buildings, there is a need for more information on authentic furnishings and fixtures in historic buildings. Gaslighting was the prominent 19th century illuminant in heavily settled areas throughout the civilized world. This richly illustrated report focuses on the types and styles of gaslighting fixtures used in 19th and 20th century America. Guidelines are provided to insure correct selection and usage of gaslighting fixtures in the refitting of restored historic buildings. 1978. 279 p. il.
